

Service failed to process your separation in a timely manner; you received twenty-one erroneous (active duty) payments through 15 January 2015. As a U.S. Naval Academy graduate and Naval Officer with over 6 years of active duty service, the Board found it unreasonable to believe that you did not realize you were receiving these invalid payments. Additionally, due to the debt incurred for the overpayment any unpaid leave you originally were to receive would be deducted from that debt, therefore, no payments are due to you in this regard.

You are entitled to have the Board reconsider its decision upon submission of new matters, which will require you to complete and submit a new DD Form 149. New matters are those not previously presented to or considered by the Board. In this regard, it is important to keep in mind that a presumption of regularity attaches to all official records. Consequently, when applying for a correction of an official naval record, the burden is on the applicant to demonstrate the existence of probable material error or injustice.

Sincerely,
