Dear Petitioner:

This is in reference to your application for correction of your naval record pursuant to Title 10, United States Code, Section 1552. After careful and conscientious consideration of relevant portions of your naval record and your application, the Board for Correction of Naval Records (Board) found the evidence submitted insufficient to establish the existence of probable material error or injustice. Consequently, your application has been denied.

Although you did not file your application in a timely manner, the Board waived the statute of limitation in accordance with the 25 August 2017 guidance from the Office of the Under Secretary of Defense for Personnel and Readiness (Kurta Memo). A three-member panel of the Board, sitting in executive session, considered your application on 5 May 2023. The names and votes of the panel members will be furnished upon request. Your allegations of error and injustice were reviewed in accordance with administrative regulations and procedures applicable to the proceedings of the Board. Documentary material considered by the Board consisted of your application together with all material submitted in support thereof, relevant portions of your naval record, and applicable statutes, regulations, and policies, to include to the Kurta Memo, the 3 September 2014 guidance from the Secretary of Defense regarding discharge upgrade requests by Veterans claiming post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD) (Hagel Memo), and the 25 July 2018 guidance from the Under Secretary of Defense for Personnel and Readiness regarding equity, injustice or clemency determinations (Wilkie Memo). The Board also considered the advisory opinion (AO) of a qualified mental health provider, which was previously provided to you. Although you were afforded an opportunity to submit a rebuttal, you chose not to do so.

You enlisted in the Navy and began a period of active duty on 18 March 1981. You were subject to a total of six nonjudicial punishments (NJPs) in a period of less than 2 years, beginning in February 1982 through November of 1984. Your NJP offenses included: three violations of Article 92 for dereliction of duty, to include sleeping on fire watch and sleeping in your workspace during normal working hours; four violations of Article 86 for periods of unauthorized absence; a violation of Article 110 for hazarding a vessel by failing to remain with a welder; and, your sixth and final NJP, a violation of Article 112a for wrongful use of marijuana, which was also your second drug abuse offense. On 6 May 1983, you were convicted by Summary Court-Martial (SCM) for a violation of Article 134 due to wrongful possession of the controlled substance, hashish, while aboard a naval vessel. Your SCM punishment included a sentence of 30 days confinement.

The initial substance abuse report following your first drug abuse offense noted a “recent positive attitude change” toward your drug usage and expressed the intent to afford you another opportunity to continue serving. However, following your second drug abuse offense in November of 1984, you were notified of processing for administrative separation by reason of commission of a serious offense, drug abuse, and pattern of misconduct. You elected to waive your right to a hearing before an administrative separation board and were discharged under Other Than Honorable (OTH) conditions, on 19 December 1984, for misconduct due to pattern of misconduct

The Board carefully considered all potentially mitigating factors to determine whether the interests of justice warrant relief in your case in accordance with the Kurta, Hagel, and Wilkie Memos. These included, but were not limited to, your desire to upgrade your discharge and your contentions that that you were diagnosed with bi-polar disorder after your discharge which, you believe, led to your poor decision during your military service, you are currently homeless, and you desire veterans benefits. For purposes of clemency and equity consideration, the Board considered the evidence you submitted in support of your application.

Because you contend that a mental health condition affected the circumstances of your discharge, the Board also considered the AO. The AO stated in pertinent part:

There is no evidence that he was diagnosed with a mental health condition in military service, or that he exhibited any psychological symptoms or behavioral changes indicative of a diagnosable mental health condition. Throughout his disciplinary processing, there were no concerns raised of a mental health condition that would have warranted a referral for evaluation. Post-service, he has received a diagnosis of a mental health condition that is temporally remote to his military service, and appears unrelated, as he reported no prior history of mental health treatment upon admission in 2020. Unfortunately, available records are not sufficiently detailed to establish clinical symptoms or provide a nexus with his misconduct. Additional records (e.g., post-service mental health records describing the Petitioner’s diagnosis, symptoms, and their specific link to his misconduct) may aid in rendering an alternate opinion.

The AO concluded, “it is my clinical opinion there is insufficient evidence of a mental health condition that may be attributed to military service. There is insufficient evidence to attribute his misconduct to a mental health condition.”

After thorough review, the Board concluded these potentially mitigating factors were insufficient to warrant relief. Specifically, the Board determined that your misconduct, as evidenced by your NJPs, outweighed these mitigating factors. In making this finding, the Board considered the seriousness of your misconduct and the fact it included drug offenses. The Board determined that illegal drug use by a service member is contrary to military core values and policy, renders such members unfit for duty, and poses an unnecessary risk to the safety of their fellow service members. The Board noted that marijuana use in any form is still against Department of Defense regulations and not permitted for recreational use while serving in the military. Furthermore, the Board concurred with the AO that there is insufficient evidence to attribute your misconduct to a mental health condition. While the Board noted your post-discharge medical diagnosis, the Board agreed it was too temporally remote to your discharge. Finally, absent a material error or injustice, the Board declined to summarily upgrade a discharge solely for the purpose of facilitating veterans' benefits, or enhancing educational or employment opportunities. As a result, the Board concluded your conduct constituted a significant departure from that expected of a service member and continues to warrant an OTH characterization. While the Board carefully considered the evidence you submitted in mitigation, even in light of the Wilkie Memo and reviewing the record liberally and holistically, the Board did not find evidence of an error or injustice that warrants granting you the relief you requested or granting relief as a matter of clemency or equity. Ultimately, the Board concluded the mitigation evidence you provided was insufficient to outweigh the seriousness of your misconduct. Accordingly, given the totality of the circumstances, the Board determined that your request does not merit relief.

You are entitled to have the Board reconsider its decision upon the submission of new matters, which will require you to complete and submit a new DD Form 149. New matters are those not previously presented to or considered by the Board. In this regard, it is important to keep in mind that a presumption of regularity is attached to all official records. Consequently, when applying for a correction of an official naval record, the burden is on the applicant to demonstrate the existence of probable material error or injustice.

Sincerely,

5/17/2023
