

DEPARTMENT OF THE NAVY
BOARD FOR CORRECTION OF NAVAL RECORDS
2 NAVY ANNEX
WASHINGTON DC 20370-5100

REC:tjr
Docket No: 11617-09
8 March 2010

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

This is in reference to your application for correction of your naval record pursuant to the provisions of Title 10, United States Code, Section 1552.

A three-member panel of the Board for Correction of Naval Records, sitting in executive session, considered your application on 2 March 2010. The names and votes of the members of the panel will be furnished upon request. Your allegations of error and injustice were reviewed in accordance with administrative regulations and procedures applicable to the proceedings of this Board. Documentary material considered by the Board consisted of your application, together with all material submitted in support thereof, your naval record, and applicable statutes, regulations, and policies.

After careful and conscientious consideration of the entire record, the Board found the evidence submitted was insufficient to establish the existence of probable material error or injustice.

You enlisted in the Navy on 30 January 2007 at age 21 and served without disciplinary incident.

Your record reflects that during your enlistment processing you disclosed a pre-existing diagnosis of post gastrectomy/dumping syndrome. It was determined that this condition negatively impacted your performance of duty and affected your ability to function effectively. As such, you were recommended for an expeditious administrative separation.

As a result of the foregoing, you were notified of administrative separation by reason of convenience of the government due to a pre-existing medical condition as evidenced by your diagnosed post gastrectomy/dumping syndrome. At that time you did not object to the separation and waived your rights to submit a separation rebuttal statement. Subsequently, your commanding officer recommended discharge by reason of convenience of the government due to a pre-existing medical condition as evidenced by your diagnosed post gastrectomy/dumping syndrome, and further noted that you were not recommended for retention or reenlistment. The discharge authority approved this recommendation and directed your commanding officer to issue you a general discharge by reason of convenience of the government due to a condition, not a disability. On 7 September 2007 you were so discharged and were assigned an RE-4 reenlistment code.

In May 2009 the Naval Discharge Review Board (NDRB) upgraded the characterization of your service to fully honorable. However, the narrative reason for separation was not changed.

The Board, in its review of your entire record and application, carefully weighed all potentially mitigating factors, such as your youth and desire to change your reenlistment code. It also considered the NDRB proceedings regarding the characterization of your service. It further considered your assertion that your RE code should be changed because you told the truth and should not be denied the opportunity to reenlist. Nevertheless, the Board concluded these factors were not sufficient to warrant a change in your reenlistment code because of your pre-existing diagnosed post gastrectomy/dumping syndrome. Further, the Board concluded that your diagnosed syndrome and nonrecommendation for retention or reenlistment were sufficient to support the assignment of an RE-4 reenlistment code, which is authorized by regulatory guidance. Accordingly, your application has been denied.

It is regretted that the circumstances of your case are such that favorable action cannot be taken. You are entitled to have the Board reconsider its decision upon submission of new and material evidence or other matter not previously considered by the Board. In this regard, it is important to keep in mind that a presumption of regularity attaches to all official records. Consequently, when applying for a correction of an official naval record, the burden is on the applicant to demonstrate the existence of probable material error or injustice.

Sincerely,

W. DEAN PFEIFFER
Executive Director
