Dear Petitioner:

This is in reference to your application for correction of your naval record pursuant to Section 1552 of Title 10, United States Code. After careful and conscientious consideration of relevant portions of your naval record and your application, the Board for Correction of Naval Records (Board) found the evidence submitted insufficient to establish the existence of probable material error or injustice. Consequently, your application has been denied.

Although your application was not filed in a timely manner, the Board found it in the interest of justice to waive the statute of limitations and consider your application on its merits. A three-member panel of the Board, sitting in executive session, considered your application on 25 November 2025. The names and votes of the panel members will be furnished upon request. Your allegations of error and injustice were reviewed in accordance with administrative regulations and procedures applicable to the proceedings of the Board. Documentary material considered by the Board consisted of your application together with all material submitted in support thereof, relevant portions of your naval record, and applicable statutes, regulations, and policies, to include the 25 July 2018 guidance from the Under Secretary of Defense for Personnel and Readiness regarding equity, injustice or clemency determinations (Wilkie Memo).

You enlisted in the U.S. Marine Corps and began a period of active duty on 30 June 1966. After a period of continuous Honorable service you were transferred to the Marine Corps Reserve. On 11 October 1978, you began another enlistment that ended, on 27 June 1983, with your placement on the temporary disability retired list (TDRL). On 31 August 1988, you were removed from the TDRL and authorized to reenlist. On 1 October 1988, you began another period of active duty.

On 14 April 1992, you tested positive for cocaine. Consequently, on 12 June 1992, you requested a separation in lieu of trial (SILT) with an Other Than Honorable (OTH) characterization for your drug abuse. Your SILT request was approved by the Separation Authority and you were so discharged on 21 August 1992.

Post-discharge, you applied to the Naval Discharge Review Board (NDRB) for relief. The NDRB denied your request, on 10 March 1993, after determining your discharge was proper as issued.

The Board carefully considered all potentially mitigating factors to determine whether the interests of justice warrant relief in your case in accordance with the Wilkie Memo. These included, but were not limited to, your desire for an upgrade in your characterization of service and your contentions that you had a mental breakdown and they took you into custody, they charged you with unauthorized absence and probably dereliction of duty, you requested court-martial and were going to expose your issue and what was happening with your chain of command, and you agreed to accept office hours instead. You further contend that you tested positive for cocaine, your family left the house, and you called the CIA and FBI for help but they did not respond. For purposes of clemency and equity consideration, the Board considered the totality of your application; which included your DD Form 149 and the evidence you provided in support of it.

After thorough review, the Board concluded these potentially mitigating factors were insufficient to warrant relief. Specifically, the Board determined that your misconduct, as evidenced by your positive urinalysis and SILT discharge, outweighed these mitigating factors. In making this finding, the Board considered the likely seriousness of your misconduct. The Board also noted that the misconduct that led to your request to be discharged in lieu of trial by court-martial was substantial and determined that you already received a large measure of clemency when the convening authority agreed to administratively separate you in lieu of trial by court-martial; thereby sparing you the stigma of a court-martial conviction and possible punitive discharge. Finally, the Board noted you provided no evidence, other than your statement, to substantiate your contentions regarding the circumstances of your administrative separation. The Board found no evidence in your record to support a finding that you were treated unfairly and determined your administrative separation pursuant to your SILT request was appropriately approved.

As a result, the Board determined that there was no impropriety or inequity in your discharge and concluded that your misconduct and disregard for good order and discipline clearly merited your discharge. While the Board carefully considered the evidence you submitted in mitigation, even in light of the Wilkie Memo and reviewing the record holistically, the Board did not find evidence of an error or injustice that warrants granting you the relief you requested or granting relief as a matter of clemency or equity. Ultimately, the Board concluded the mitigation evidence you provided was insufficient to outweigh the seriousness of your misconduct. Accordingly, given the totality of the circumstances, the Board determined that your request does not merit relief.

You are entitled to have the Board reconsider its decision upon submission of new matters, which will require you to complete and submit a new DD Form 149. New matters are those not previously presented to or considered by the Board. In this regard, it is important to keep in mind that a presumption of regularity attaches to all official records. Consequently, when applying for a correction of an official naval record, the burden is on the applicant to demonstrate the existence of probable material error or injustice.

Sincerely,

12/5/2025
